OKLAHOMA CITY.—Oklahoma is emerging Wednesday from the most disastrous flood in the history of the state. With thousands of persons homeless, millions of dollars in property laid waste, railroads and highway traffic paralyzed and public utility services demoralized, the state set about relief and reconstruction measures as the crisis passed and the unprecedented overflow waters in most sections began to fall.

Oklahoma City bore the brunt of the debacle, but virtually the entire north-west, northeast and central parts of the state along the watershed, from the Kansas line downward were engulfed by streams swollen by recent torrential rains.

The total damage here alone is placed at $2,500,000.

Two are known to be dead here and many persons are ill in hospitals from exposure.

Driven from their homes late Monday night by a surging wall of water which thundered down on the city after crushing the banks of the municipal dam, ten miles away, all but a few of the 15,000 persons who inhabited the danger zone had returned to their dwellings Wednesday. It is estimated that not more than one thousand refugees now are under the care of relief agencies.

WATER IS RECEDING

The flood waters rapidly are receding Wednesday, revealing a picture of desolation and misery in their wake.

The capital hill section and packing town home of the meat packing industry here, still are completely cut off from the remainder of the city and likely will be closed to traffic for some time because of the water which covers all communicating thoroughfares as well as hundreds of acres of bottom lands between.

The retail center of the city, which was seriously threatened by the rapidly advancing waters Tuesday was left high and dry.

The dead are Mrs. R. H. Loese and her 5-year old daughter who were drowned when a boat capsized as they attempted to escape from their home. Loese and another daughter who also were in the boat, were rescued hours later from a tree top which they grasped as the current bore them rapidly away.

The bodies of Mrs. Loese and the child have been recovered.

FETE ANNIVERSARY OF OSHKOSH COURT

By Associated Press

Oshkosh—Nearly all of the attorneys of Winnebago and Calumet counties and a number of other invited guests, about 75 in all, attended the banquet given at the Atherton hotel here Tuesday evening by Judge Beglinger of circuit court, in honor of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the opening of the circuit court of Winnebago county. That court now includes both Winnebago and Calumet counties. A number of addresses were given by attorneys and judges, these being largely of a reminiscent character. The early days of the court were pictured and a historical sketch was given of the court from its inception to the present day. The first case was tried Oct. 18, 1848, court being held in the single schoolhouse then existing in Oshkosh. Among the speakers were Judge L. W. Halsey and W. H. Hays, both of Milwaukee, who praised the high standing of the Winnebago county bar. Several speakers declared the attorneys should give more attention to affairs of state to overcome the dangerous influence of having public affairs entirely in the hands of politicians with little knowledge of the legal phases of government. It was also declared there should be greater respect for the law and that the power of the courts should not be lessened.

Chicago—David Lloyd George former premier of Great Britain, has cancelled all his engagements for Wednesday but hopes to keep the speaking engagement Wednesday night at the international amphitheatre, at the stock yards. Owing to the continuance of a slight temperature his doctors have ordered him to remain in bed and rest the greater part of the day.

Lloyd George has a cold aggravated by fatigue, his secretary, William Sutherland said, but he confidently hoped to speak Wednesday night. COOK LETTERS

nesses

Fort Worth, Tex.—C. B. Whitmer of Freeman, Ia. took the stand Wednesday again as the government's first witness in the trial in federal court here of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, and his co-defendants on charges of using the United States mails to defraud in furtherance of their oil promotion schemes.

Mr. Whitmer was not called Tuesday until nearly time for court to adjourn and his evidence was brief. He identified a number of letters introduced as evidence and testified he received them through the mails from the Burk-Hort Oil Co., signed by J. S. Rocks, a co-defendant, and from the petroleum producer's signed by Dr. Cook.

The stockholders of the Burk-Hort Co. were urged through the letters to transfer their stock in that company to Dr. Cook association, explaining that they could do so by paying cash in the amount of 25 per cent of the value of the stock they held.

United States Attorney Henry Zweifel furnished a surprise during the trial Tuesday when he informed the court that the seven defendants who pleaded guilty Monday would be used as witnesses by the government.

Wisconsin Senator Says Ignorance Of Political Questions Is Great Danger Of Modern Times

Chicago—A responsibility rests upon newspapers of the United States to inform the public correctly of facts upon public questions so that they may act with understanding, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin declared here Wednesday night in an address before the Inland Daily Press association.

"One of the greatest dangers confronting America today is that the people are not informed upon public questions, that they do not understand the facts underlying the country's problem," the senator told his audience of publishers of daily newspapers.

"Newspapers should state freely the facts about public questions and leave to the editorial columns any conclusions to be drawn from the facts. A newspaper which will in the news columns either suppress or distort facts because of the political complexion of the paper, is not a newspaper at all, and in selling its papers obtains money under false pretenses.

"CRITICISM OF PRESIDENT
"There is also room for improvement in another direction, and that is the form of criticism of the President of the United States, whoever he may be. Since the death of President Harding, I hope the press and the public have learned one thing, and that is however much we may disagree with the politics or views of the president, that he shall not be charged with sinister motives against the people of the country whom he was elected to serve.

"We hear much today about the kept press. From a careful observation I have come to the conclusion that there is such a thing as a 'kept press' but it is confined almost wholly to those papers which make that charge.

"On the other hand, nearly every paper making this charge is 'kept' by some organization, political or otherwise. Its news columns reflecting the opinions of those who own stock in it or contribute to its deficit. A newspaper which is found guilty of misstating facts in its news columns, for the purpose of serving some propaganda ought to be ostracized by respectable newspaper publishers and barred from membership in their associations."

SHERIFF AND CONSTABLE
BOTH DIE IN PISTOL DUEL

Jefferson, Tex.—The sheriff of Martin county and the constable of the county seat engaged in a pistol duel Tuesday night and Wednesday the county is shocked at the loss of two of its most prominent peace officers, both past fifty years of age.

B. B. Rodgers, 55, sheriff, and W. B. Proctor, 59, constable of the Jefferson precinct, sighted each other a half block from the courthouse on Polk-st., one of the principal streets of Jefferson.

They met without a word. The constable shoved the sheriff against a water hydrant, the story reported by the few persons who witnessed the shooting Wednesday told police. The sheriff stumbled. But while the sheriff momentarily lost control of his legs, his hand gripped his pistol and he whipped out his gun and fired. He hit Proctor once in the hip and again in the heart.

Shots from the constable's pistol crossed with those of Rodgers, almost instantaneously, according to the stories told the police. The constable shot the sheriff through the head while the latter was stumbling and slipping to the ground.

Several generous contributions from men who heard Mrs. S. C. Koffend, Jr. and Mrs. E. H. Krug presented a stunt showing how to "Punch Every Purse" and raise $10,000 in a few hours. The stunt was presented at the clubhouse Tuesday evening when the workers gathered to get their cards and instructions for the drive.

Each solicitor was given a list of facts about the club which were planned to answer any possible question about the finances and activities of the organization. Each solicitor will have a copy of the budget with her and will be able to explain all the expenditures. Mrs. D. O. Kinsman who is in charge of the campaign urged the women to go out and get

It is supposed to have been imported with Chinese laborers from Annam, who are being employed in the reconstruction of the devastated regions, as the disease is known only in the tropics. It is caused by a microscopic but tough parasite in the intestine. Physicians hope that colder weather will discourage the germs. The death rate from the disease is 25 per cent.

Accused Of Starting Blaze
In Timber

Marquette, Mich.—The charred and blistered bodies of the five men suffocated and burned to death in forest fires on Monday have been found and brought to Big Bay. The men are August Dauber, 32; Sam Klemens 52; Simon Valeski, 30; John West, 38, and Ben Sussie, 20.

All were sent to Big Bay a few days ago by a Chicago employment agency and nothing is known as to their residence or relatives. Some of them, it is understood, were going under assumed names.

Fires were burning fiercely on Tuesday in a territory within a radius of thirty miles of Marquette, threatening to destroy lumber camps, summer cottages, farm homes, large piles of logs on skidways and standing timber. The Greenwoods company lumber camp near Ontonagon was burned to the ground Monday night. Sixteen houses, thirty pigs and four automobiles were destroyed.

The worst fire center on Tuesday is in the Ontonagon valley. The copper country was completely isolated Monday night because fires had burned telephone and telegraph poles, cutting off wire communication.

FIREBUGS ARRESTED

Houghton, Mich.—Michael Fenski and John Behniski are under arrest by Baraga-co, charged with starting forest fires. They admitted, according to the authorities, that they were responsible for starting the fire that severed Houghton from wire communication with the outside world, but declared they had nothing to do with the origin of the fire in which five men lost their lives Monday.

Two school houses and forty-eight farm homes were saved only after a continuous forty-eight hour fight in which men, women and children joined. Destruction of game has been tremendous, thousands of turkeys and other birds and rabbits having perished.

DRYS URGE DIRECT ACTION

President Does Not "Pass
Buck" But Demands Cooperation Of Governors

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1923 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington—President Coolidge will enforce the Volstead act by utilizing every available agency of the United States government. And in telling this to the assembled governors of the several states next Saturday, he will point out the serious responsibility which rests with the states to enforce the law of the land.

The effect of the citizenship conference has been to set the stage for an important pronouncement by President Coolidge, after it is made, it was said Tuesday at the White House there will no longer be any doubt about the position of the president toward law enforcement.

But at no time will the president take the extreme position on the prohibition subject which has been described by some prohibitionists as the course of "fanaticism." Mr. Coolidge recognizes that the enforcement of prohibition is entirely separate from whatever sentiment may legitimately be expressed with reference to future modification by legal means of existing laws. So long as the statutes are on the books, he will insist upon 100 per cent enforcement but the chances are he will not commit himself against modification as did the late President Harding.

Mr. Coolidge may take occasion to make it clear that he has absolute faith in Roy Haynes, prohibition commissioner. He has informally let it be known heretofore that he intended Mr. Haynes to have his complete say in the law. The prospects are that the "drys" will gain their point in asking that the president take personal charge of the prohibition situation by dealing directly with Mr. Haynes instead of the usual procedure by way of the head of a department.

ALLEN SPEECH GIVES CUE

The speech of former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas who replied to Governor Fincher of Pennsylvania at the governors conference, enforces the law by removing mayors of cities where the law was being flouted, gives a cue to the attitude which President Coolidge himself will take at the governors conference. The president, according to his friends, is not attempting to "pass the buck" to the states but he does feel that to federal police is not big enough to handle the problem and that without state cooperation enforcement of the law can not be effective. The original purpose of the "drys" in putting into the eighteenth amendment a provision for "concurrent jurisdiction" was to bring into play the police power of all the states. Mr. Coolidge will formally invoke that power next Saturday and appeal to the governors to help the federal government to obtain respect for existing law.

For many months the office of Prohibition Commissioner Haynes has been at work on the question of state cooperation with the federal government and it is expected that President Coolidge will lay before the governors some concrete suggestions which can bring the federal government and the state machinery closer together so as to avoid duplication on the one hand and achieve effective prosecution of law breakers on the other.

The loss at the Johnson place is estimated at $3,000. Much valuable timber was destroyed.

PRICES SHOW

creases Offset By Rise In Cost Of Clothing

By Associated Press

Washington—The trend of whole sale prices, which has been gradually downward since May, took a decided upturn in September it was shown Wednesday in statistics compiled by the department of labor. An advance of nearly 2 1/2 per cent was indicated in a compilation which includes 402 commodities.

Cloths and clothing showed the greatest increase, due mainly to the marked advances in raw silk, principal cloths and cotton yarns, according to the figures, registering an advance of 4 1/2 per cent. Advances in corn, oats, rye, wheat, hogs, cotton, eggs and hay caused the farm products group to rise 3 1/2 per cent. A net increase of 3 1/2 per cent also was shown for the food groups because of the continued advance in the price of beef and pork, butter, cheese, eggs, flour, lard, cornmeal and sugar. A net decrease of more than 2 per cent was shown in building materials.

GENERAL TREND UPWARD

As compared with a year ago, measured by the same figures, the general trend of prices was shown to have risen slightly more than one half of one per cent.

The decrease of nearly 2 1/2 per cent in fuel and lighting during the 12 months was offset by increases occurring in all other commodity groups, ranging from 1 per cent in building materials to nearly 10 1/2 per cent in cloths and clothing.

By Associated Press

Bingham, U.—In full view of and almost within reach of the rescue party, the battered and mangled body of Dan Eden, 60 years old, foreman of the Utah-Apex Mescal mine, at an early hour Wednesday morning was still in the grip of the huge rock pile which crushed it at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and which at the same time killed or entombed alive the five companions of the foreman. No signals have come through the gigantic rock pile and whether the rescuers will be aided by trembling, thankful miners or by stark stiff bodies is a matter of conjecture.

WEDGED AMONG ROCKS

Eden's body is wedged in such a manner that it is impossible to move it without bringing down upon the heads of the rescuers the tons of loosened rock which rest upon the very stones which hold the body fast.

The men entombed and whose fate is unknown are Joseph Narden, superintendent; Richard Armstrong, O. C. Nelson, Joseph Ratzlaff and Charles Carsons.

The accident occurred just as the men were preparing to leave the slope for the day.

SOUP KITCHENS END

In Attack On Town Hall
And Bourse

By Associated Press

Berlin—Measures announced by the municipality to aid the unemployed were followed Wednesday by quiet in the troubled centers of greater Berlin where mobs, composed of thousands of idle workers engaged in food rioting Tuesday resulting in the wounding of more than a score and at least one fatality. Wednesday there was no sign of disorder.

Among measures announced by the city authorities in the form of relief were the immediate opening of four feeding kitchens for the distribution of free meals and free allowances of wood and coal.

The police charge that a trick similar to methods they declare has been used in Moscow and Petrograd to incite the crowds to violence was worked in the Police near the town hall Tuesday. Men stretching beams, followed by women in nurses' attire and carrying first aid stretchers accompanied the demonstrators, the police report. They contend that everything was comparatively orderly until the tricksters placed a perfectly sound man on the stretcher, covered him with a sheet and began parading through the crowds, proclaiming the man to be a victim of police brutality. The police say that soon afterward rioting began.

ROSEBUSH ATTENDS MEETING TO CHANGE Y. M. C. A. BASIC LAW

Ten Proposals For Reorganizing Association Are Before Convention

The constitutional convention of the Young Men's Christian association of North America opens at Cleveland, Ohio, today, and will continue in session until Friday, Oct. 26. The Wisconsin delegates are: J. G. Rosebush, Appleton; C. C. Givins, Racine; C. R. Pieper, LaCrosse; H. F. Lindsey, J. B. Modest, F. A. Hathaway, Milwaukee; and F. O. Leiser, Madison.

In a letter to George F. Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., F. Hathaway, state secretary, says that no one has dared prophesy what the influence of this convention will be on the association movement. Ten different plans for reorganization of the association movement and general agencies (national committee and state committee) and their relationship to the local association have been proposed.

Among the important issues which this convention will face are:

MEMBERSHIP BASIS

Shall the association movement maintain two separate general agencies, or shall there be one single agency to do the work now performed by state committees and international committees?

How can the legislative body, the international convention, be reduced in size so as to make it a deliberative body and still maintain its representative character?

What shall be the basis of active membership in the local associations?

Does the association movement need a judiciary? If so, how shall it be constituted and what shall be its powers?

How may the general agencies be assured of adequate budgets to finance programs which are authorized by the local associations through convention action?

In order that he might be advised of developments Mr. Hathaway said he would send Mr. Werner a brief summary each day of the proceedings.

The issues and problems are so far-reaching and complex that only by a thorough study of the principles involved can one have an intelligent knowledge of this problem, he said.

ADD 500 MEMBERS MONTHLY TO A. A. L.

Highly Satisfactory Growth Shown In Reports At Trustees Meeting

Additions to the membership of the Aid Association for Lutherans average 500 a month, according to reports submitted to the board of trustees at a meeting Tuesday by Albert Voeks, managing secretary. The September total of 501 new members was better than that shown by the report of September, 1922, when 435 new policyholders were taken in. The amount of insurance written in September this year was $584,250, as compared to $480,250 in September, 1922.

Twelve deaths occurred during the month among members, and claims of the beneficiaries to the amount of $9,750 were allowed.

The board made the usual audit of the books of the association and transacted other routine business.

JOBS GETTING SCARCE AS BUSINESS SLACKENS

C. L. Boynton, employment secretary of the Y. M. C. A., has several men available for mill jobs which appear to be at a premium at present. This is said to be due to mill owners shifting their employees from departments that are running light to plants where additional help is required. Several applications for common labor have been received by the secretary.

The discontinuance of road work for the season has thrown quite a number of men out of employment, however. The employment secretary has quite a number of college students available for part time work.

Must Be Good Businessman To Be Success As A Poet

Malloch Advises Embryo Poets To Persevere If They Like It

This man Douglas Malloch, poet, who made 150 men and women laugh while he shot some hot truths at them Tuesday evening at the chamber of commerce forum, is a regular "feeler." He doesn't wear his hair in a long mane, he doesn't sport a flow in the wind, he is a good mixer. You couldn't tell him from any other business man in a crowd.

But a reporter got on his trail and subjected him to an interview. Before the reporter got through he thought he was being interviewed. That's the kind of a fellow Malloch is.

Malloch has been called by newspapers "The man who made poetry pay" and the reporter wanted to know how he did it.

Yes, admitted the poet, "I believe some newspapers have said that but they didn't say how much it paid." He thinks Charlie Chaplin and Harry Sunday still have me beaten. But it has paid enough so that I can do the work that I like to do best—that that is bigger pay than many a man gets who is holding down a hundred-thousand-dollar job. The greatest joy in life isn't in being able to play but in being able to work at the thing you like to do.

"You wouldn't discourage the young men and women inclined to write poetry then?"

"Why should they be discouraged any more than the boy who wants to be a lawyer or the girl who longs to be a musician? If they have the gift, they ought to be allowed, they ought to be made, to develop it and if they haven't it, they will eventually find it out. You speak as though a child who keeps poetry should be hit on the head or sent somewhere for treatment. Better make a good poet out of such a child than a poor lawyer or a worse cook."

"But can they ever hope to make a living out of it?"

"Why not? Painters, sculptors, musicians, and other workers in the arts make livings—the good ones do. Why not poets? If they have the gift, perseverance, industry, and business sense, they will succeed. And don't misunderstand the word 'gift.' You have to have a gift to drive a team of horses. Most people can do a lot of things extraordinarily well, but some one thing extraordinarily well. They ought to find out what it is, and go at it. That beats trying to find out what will pay the most money and then attempting that, whether you have the gift for it or not. I am glad that Shakespeare didn't decide that he could make more money running his father's lumber yard—you know his father was a lumberman—but decided to do the thing he liked to do best, regardless of how it paid. I guess that most of the men who did things that helped the world took some such view of it."

"What advice would you give a young poet?"

"Say, I am looking for it, not giving it. I will say this: Don't try to write what the editors want nor what the public wants. Write what you, yourself want, what you want to do, because that will be what you'll write best. Maybe the editors want it at first. Maybe they won't want it at all. Then you will have to decide whether you can't write or merely whether the editors can't read. But your stuff will at least be sincere. That is more likely to win than the best imitation."

"Would you write 'vers libre'?"

Nerves On Fire From Neuritis

Thousands of people afflicted with neuritis take medicine for rheumatism and wonder why they don't get well. Such people do not know that even a slight attack of rheumatism may develop into a severe case of neuritis or "nerve inflammation," which calls for different treatment.

Neuritis is often accompanied by a feeling as if the nerves were on fire, soreness in the muscles, stiffness in the joints or a tingling sensation in the hands or feet. Always there is pain—sharp, agonizing pain—which may hurt constantly or only at intervals.

Epsa Neuritis Tablets will quickly soothe the throbbing, aching nerves and gradually assist in removing inflammation and soreness. Guaranteed harmless. Used and endorsed by physicians. Price 21. Sold in Appleton by Voigt's Drug Store, Beercke and Runyon Co., manufacturers, San Francisco. adv.

ASK BIDS TO EQUIP NEW FILTER PLANT

Water Commission Appoints Committee To Supervise Construction Work

The Appleton water commission at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the city hall authorized the assistant secretary to advertise for bids to furnishing equipment for and laying the filter bids in the new filter plant addition. The Appleton Construction company had already been awarded the contract to build the addition. J. Plank, A. C. Ronley and George H. Beckley were appointed a supervising committee to look after the construction. A payroll of $1,032.84 and other bills amounting to $5,516.66 were allowed by the commission Tuesday.

The September report of A. J. Hall, plant superintendent and bacteriologist, showed that a total of 50,550,000 gallons of water pumped and treated, and 3,750 gallons of wash water was used. To pump this water 4,140 gallons of fuel oil were consumed. The electrical motor pumped 2,470,000 gallons of water. The bacteriologist reported the efficiency of the plant for the whole month was 99.9 per cent.

WIN BACK GIRLHOOD, HEALTH AND BEAUTY!

Medical science can be of great value to the woman who feels she has lost the charm and spirit of youth and seeks to regain it—the woman who is easily fatigued, easily upset, nervous, dyspeptic—who finds dark circles under her eyes, her complexion sallow, her eyes dull instead of sparkling and the girlish lines of her figure slipping away. This is the woman who needs Dr. H. S. Thacher, the celebrated Physician, is being used by innumerable well known women. It is scientifically designed to help correct constipation (one cause) and it does it without gripping, also to improve digestion, to soothe and tone up the system, soothe those tired, overtaxed nerves, put on solid firm flesh and send purer, healthier blood flowing through your veins.

Try it yourself! Just a spoonful after the next few meals. Notice the quick difference in the way you eat, sleep, look and feel. If you are not completely satisfied your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Posse Seeks Strange Man At Freedom

Residents in the town of Freedom, especially near the William McCormick farm, have been terrorized the last ten days by a strange man who has been prowling about the roads and woods. Monday night he was seen in the yard at the McCormick home and a call was sent to Michael McCormick, deputy sheriff at Oneida, but when the deputy and his posse arrived the stranger had fled into the woods where the trail was lost. He has not been seen since that time. About ten days ago the stranger was seen in a grove on the McCormick farm. People approached him but he apparently neither heard nor saw them and no effort was made to molest him. A day or two later he was seen in Oneida. Freedom people believe that man is insane. Posse have been searching for him since Monday night but no traces have been found. Lawrence Lenten of Dale is visiting Appleton friends.

APPLETON DISPLAY PLANNED AT SHOW

Manufacturers Will Join In Engaging Space At Milwaukee Exposition

Manufacturers of Appleton outside of the paper industry are contemplating a joint exhibit at the Wisconsin Products exposition in Milwaukee Dec. 1 to 5, occupying perhaps several booths in the Mechanics-bldg. G. W. Carrothers, one of the exposition organizers, is spending a day or two here calling on those who expect to participate.

The paper manufacturers of the state have joined in an extensive exhibit which will show the entire process of making paper. It is found that some of the other industries here are not conducted on a large enough scale to warrant the expense of individual exhibits, and the joint project therefore may be worked out in order to divide the display cost.

FIRE PREVENTION SHOULD BE HABIT, FIRE CHIEF SAYS

McGillan Urges Appleton People To Cooperate In Removing Fire Hazards

Developing a fire-consciousness within the individual and making such a habit of fire not only a habit, but an instinct is one of the methods by which the alarming fire losses and crises of life and limb may be cut down each year. Chief George P. McGillan of the fire department declared in his address on "Fire Waste and Fire Prevention" at the chamber of commerce forum dinner in Hotel Appleton Tuesday evening.

Figures were given to show how great an increase there has been in fire losses and the chief offered suggestions for avoiding many of the causes of fire. A pledge of caution was suggested also.

"Everybody should become a 'bright fire-consciousness,'" said the chief. "They should keep the following pledge: I pledge myself to good citizenship as a citizen of Appleton; second, in learning to recognize and correct dangerous conditions; third, by pointing out dangerous conditions in my own city; fourth, by helping to teach others to make fire-consciousness a habit."

USED INSPECTIONS

"Collectively, one of the first things we should do is to lead support wholeheartedly to the introduction of such fire building codes wherever they do not now exist. There should be a building code that takes cognizance of the infinite possibilities for the occurrence of fire, and without overlooking either owners or builders, set safeguards against these chances.

"Again, where the local fire department agencies in fire prevention activities, we should accord it our long cooperation. Fire inspectors are made for your benefit and mine, but are not, as many ignorant people choose to believe, made merely for the sake of exercising vested authority. When the fire inspector calls and takes an inspection of your property and tells you of the defects he found, that are liable to cause fire, have been removed as a cause.

Chief McGillan declared that a fire crisis in this country on the average every 60 seconds. Total losses last year were $521,560,000, or $552 a minute and it looks as if the total will be still greater for 1923. This is all the more alarming when it is learned that in Great Britain's fire loss per capita is 72 cents as compared to $4.18 in the United States.

But far worse than these financial losses, the chief said, are the statistics showing 15,000 lives lost yearly through fires, and 17,000 others crippled. The growth of fire loss exceeds the growth of population, showing that there is urgent need to check it.

$17,000 ANNUAL LOSS

Appleton figures in possession of Chief McGillan showed that the fire loss here in 1915 was $81,140.47, in 1916, $101,110.47, in 1917, $112,152.23, in 1918, $121,268.94, in 1919, $131,385.15, in 1920, $141,501.36, in 1921, $151,617.57, in 1922, $161,733.78, in 1923, $171,850.00. This is an average of $17,000 a year. Twelve thousand inspections, not including re-inspections are made here annually, the reports show.

Defective chimneys and flues and marks falling on roofs are the most frequent causes of fires, said the speaker. Stoves, boilers and their pipes come next, electricity follows, and smokers' carelessness cause many others.

"Carelessness in some form is the cause of the bottom of an overwhelming majority of dwelling house fires," said the fire chief. "It may be the neglect of the heating apparatus, the use of candles or other open flame lights, or thoughtlessness with matches and smoking materials. Rubbish may be allowed to accumulate in cellars and attics. Moreover, although this is the year 1923, a veritable army of American housewives still need to be cured of the habit of quickening kitchen fires with kerosene, of cleaning clothes with gasoline, illuminating the home with poorly constructed and improperly cared for oil lamps, of utilizing electric lamps for bed warmers and indulging in similar ill-considered practices."

More careful construction of chimneys, the use of fireproof shingles or leaded, placing of stoves and furnaces where they will not have fire contact and exacting precaution in electric wiring of homes and buildings were among the things he advocated. He warned against placing ashes where they would ignite buildings, and explained some of the causes and means of prevention of spontaneous combustion.

LOSS BY FIRE IS SELF-IMPOSED TAX. ROTARIANS TOLD

U. S. Chamber Of Commerce Expert Blames Carelessness For Big Losses

In 1922 the United States and cities in the United States lost $521,000,000 due to fire. Fifteen thousand people lost their lives, mostly women and children. We have four-thirds $1,000,000 fires, nearly one a week. Five school houses burned a day on an average.

The above statement was made by James L. Madden of Washington, D. C., manager of the insurance and fire prevention department of the chamber of commerce of the United States, in an address on "Fire Prevention" before the Rotary club at its luncheon at Conway hotel Tuesday noon.

"The amount of fire loss," said the speaker, "is on the increase. It has reached such proportions that something has got to be done. In 1920 the loss was sufficient to build a Panama canal, or I believe to pay one-half the interest on the national debt."

SELF IMPOSED TAXES

"We hear of taxes, but after all there is one tax that we impose upon ourselves—one tax which we can control and reduce if we will. It is our fire loss.

"The average loss per capita in the United States is $4.18. The greatest fire loss in Great Britain averages 75 cents per capita.

"The conditions in the United States are different from those abroad. The situation in the two countries is not comparable. Eight per cent of Great Britain is mortar, concrete and stone. "Great Britain makes it expensive for a man that starts a fire in a neighborhood. We in the United States do not do that. They have codes in Great Britain. We have none.

"Fire itself spurs no one. Not many miles from here there was an expensive explosion. The men on the day shift knew something was smoldering. Forty-seven of the 50 men, working on the night shift were killed outright. This was due to carelessness.

STUDY EXPLOSIONS

"Do you know that one-seventh of the total amount of money is subject to explosion? There are many kinds of businesses that are subject to explosions. So many dust explosions have occurred that business men are taking it upon themselves to investigate. These explosions can be prevented if the business men will get together.

"Down in South Carolina there was a fire. Seventy-seven people were killed. These people were attending commencement exercises in a school. A lamp fell and a stampede followed. The loss of life was due to carelessness.

"At Philadelphia a man who walked through the Pennsylvania station at night threw a lighted cigarette on the platform. In a short time the whole structure was on fire and a million dollar loss was the result. The fire was due to carelessness.

"Now I could go on and give you many illustrations in factory, school houses and homes, but I have already pointed out one thing, carelessness. The conclusion is that a greater percentage of fires are due to individual carelessness."

The speaker said fires constituted a community problem and that in framing a program to cope with them carelessness should be given special attention. There must be some way of making every individual who starts a fire responsible, he declared.

NEED BUILDING CODES

"Another thing we must consider is building codes. In Illinois one-fifth of the buildings destroyed have shingled roofs. Where roofs are worn out they should be replaced with other material. Sometimes they have been toward organization locally to prevent fires from shingled roofs.

"Another thing is the matter of education. People understand fire prevention. Our job is to organize the people and work for their welfare. We do everything we can by means of persuasion in their interest.

"Education in fire prevention is important. You have men tell you why you must have fire. Even if he is covered by insurance no man can have a fire without losing money. A company can't insure for 100 per cent of value, and then again lives cannot be restored. Fire losses determine insurance rates and if you are not careful the rates go up.

"Now, I understand in Appleton you have a fire fine department and an excellent fire chief. I understand also that the business men of this community are interested in community welfare. I know your boys are splendid even though your fire losses are greater than the year before.

"The chamber of commerce is fundamentally organized as a clearing house for civic and business activities. You men have it in your power to make the chamber of commerce just what you want to. If you take the fire hazard seriously as in other cities the chamber of commerce gives you an opportunity to organize a fire prevention committee to function in an impartial way for the general welfare of the city."

What's Around the Corner?

Prices of mill and factory products "through at the country are falling to levels at which farm folks can afford to buy them more freely with what they get for their crops.

This is a good sign. It means actual "getting back to normalcy." The cities can't prosper long when the country doesn't.

This long-expected lowering of city product prices may mean less extravagant profits and less extravagant living in the cities, but it means better times on the farm, and a solid basis for everybody to do business on.

The next few years, we believe, will justify the conservatism of those who have been investing their savings in stock, well managed. State regulated public utility companies to earn only a reasonable return on their money. They won't be losing their savings, and they will be getting their dividends regularly.

Among the best of these investments are the 7 1/2 cumulative preferred shares of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. These shares are selling at $100 each—all cash or $5 down and $5 a month per share. Bought either way, they pay 7 1/2 on every dollar invested from date of purchase.

These shares are sold with the State's approval to finance growth of the Company's properties. During the last ten years the Company's transportation business has grown a "hade faster" than population gain in the region it serves, and its electric service business has grown nearly ten times as fast as population increase. It has paid preferred three dividends regularly every three months for the last twenty-three years; common share dividends every year for the last twenty years.

Hundreds of Wisconsin men and women are buying these shares, not only for permanent income. Many others are buying them on monthly payments, to get 7 1/2 interest on current savings.

If you want a safe 7 1/2 investment, come in and talk this over with us, or write, or telephone 1005 and let us send a salesman. Mail orders filled by registered letter.

concern about the millennium, for we shall be living in it.
Yet variety is no bad thing. It at least makes for joy and picturesqueness—also the truest and firmest unity is that rooted in variety. In non-essentials liberty and in all things charity—this is an old rule, given by high authority. If tobacco were abolished there would be no smokers to whom the non-smokers could point as sinners. But doubtless there would be other sinners left, and other people to point at them—and reform them. Certain it is that we are rapidly and with a high degree of success building up a Peterabery in these states. And the strange part of it is we go on permitting it to be done.

ANNUAL THIS ANNUAL EVENT
Forecasters of a strike next year in bituminous coal fields are appearing. In view of what so often happens when contracts between miners and operators expire, the public is inclined to accept the reports. Large consumers already are preparing for emergencies by accumulating coal. Not all, of course, have the storage facilities or the financial resources necessary for such an undertaking. Household holders generally are hampered in both respects. That protection on such a vast scale from possible future developments should even have to be considered is distressing.
Without seeking to fix the responsibility for suspensions of work in coal fields, it ought to be evident to members of the United Mine Workers of America that a tremendous responsibility will rest on them when they meet here next January. Demands as to wage schedules and working conditions, when the present contracts expire on March 31, then will be formulated. "It seems certain," says a dispatch from Washington, "that the miners will demand a sizable wage increase, and that the operators will reject the demand." Yet the public also is told that "the existing wage scales, on full time work, probably would give the miners what they regard as an adequate wage."
The statement has been made repeatedly that there are at least 200,000 more miners than are needed. If they worked regularly, to supply all the coal that is needed. It is unreasonable to expect a wage scale that will permit men working two or three days a week to receive an income that would be satisfactory for a year's continuous work. With immigration restricted, there are plenty of outlets for the surplus labor, and a reduction in the number of miners would make for more continuous operation of mines, best fitted to produce coal economically and continuously. If both miners and operators will devote as much attention to these questions as they do to wages, they will have laid the groundwork for a considerable recovery of public good will.

WHY BANKS STAY OUT OF RESERVE SYSTEM
Among financiers it is generally agreed that the consolidated banking power of the country should function directly through the Federal Reserve system. It has been a matter of wonder why, from the inception of the Federal Reserve system, the majority of state banks and trust companies have declined to join it. Many explanations have been offered, but probably the most practical is the statement which Mr. Waldo Newcomer, of Baltimore, representing a committee of the American Bankers' association, made to the joint congressional committee which is studying the reserve system. According to Mr. Newcomer, the state banks and trust companies remain outside the system for business reasons: they make more money as non-members.
Here are the principal reasons mentioned by Mr. Newcomer: Inadequate returns on Federal Reserve Bank stock; loss of interest on reserve balances; lack of eligible re-discount paper; and ample accommodations from correspondent banks. That is to say, in a few words, the state institutions can and do make loans to their city correspondents. The correspondents pay interest on daily balances. The money which the state institutions would invest in Federal Reserve stock they can use for earning profit. In effect, the state banks and trust companies can operate more profitably and advantageously—or they believe that they can—with the regular correspondent—banks than with the Federal Reserve system. If these are the facts it is evident that the way to unite all banks in the Federal Reserve system, and pool all banking reserves, is to make it profitable to non-members to become members.

NO SMOKING ALLOWED IN THE U. S.?
Rumors multiply to the effect that a campaign is to be started—perhaps has been started—looking to the prohibition of the manufacture and use, and, of course, the growth, of tobacco. Such a policy would fit in well with our present standardizing tendency and regulatory methods. To some Americans it is painful and intolerable that men or communities should differ from one another, and so it is thought to be necessary to make them all alike, and to do it by statute or constitutional amendment. So it would not be surprising if there were an attempt to make the nation uniformly non-tobacco-using. Nothing more is necessary than to win a majority to that of thinking. For it is an axiom in our political mathematics that whatever the majority decides is right, and hence, of course, it is supreme over the life of the individual, and over his morals.
Peter the Great, the student of history may recall, regulated the lives of his subjects in much the same way, even going so far as to prescribe the length of men's beards, imposing a graduated tax proportionate to their length. So our majority is being transformed into a sort of Peter, and whenever the constitution interferes with the process the constitution must be got out of the way by "amendment." A thoroughly trained, trimmed, disciplined and regimented population, we shall need to give ourselves no further

MEDICAL RESEARCH IN DENTAL HYGIENE
Although the teeth consist principally of calcium (lime) and according to some good authorities on nutrition in this country, notably Prof. Henry C. Sherman of Columbia university, the ordinary mixed diet of American urban residents is more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element, the amount of calcium or lime in the diet is not the dominant factor in the calcification of the teeth.
The dominant factor in this important process is the amount of vitamin-A in the diet, according to research conducted by the Mellanbys (husband and wife) for the medical research council in London. Their work showed that when this particular vitamin is taken in large amounts in the diet, it serves to retain any incorporated in the body tissues, the teeth particularly, the calcium salts in the diet. The Mellanbys observed that the physiological function of vitamin-A in the course of studies of the calcification of teeth. When vitamin-A was deficient in the diet, the more cereal eaten the worse formed were the teeth—in dogs. A diet of oatmeal gave the dogs poor teeth, both dentin and enamel being defective, but when crude (unpurified or unchained) cod liver oil was added to the oatmeal diet, the teeth developed normally. Cod liver oil, if not "purified" is one of the richest sources of vitamin-A.
No doubt the feeding of the Highlander furnishes enough vitamin-A to save his teeth from the bad effects of oatmeal alone. Milk if taken raw, and cream and butter, are likewise rich sources of vitamin-A; these additions serve to save the reputation of oatmeal as a health food. The Mellanbys observe that a diet of eggs (egg yolk is still another food rich in vitamin-A) milk, green vegetables, herring and oatmeal will produce normal teeth. On the other hand a dietary of cereals, especially oatmeal, vegetables, herring, hard, lean meat, jam, sugar and tea, would lead to defective teeth.
The cow gets her vitamin-A from the green pastures. We might say eat a bale of hay a day and keep the dental burr away—if alfalfa or clover could be condensed and marketed we could sell it to the American people as a breakfast food. But seriously, if we can't compete with the cow for that which assures sound teeth, we can get a sufficient ration of vitamin-A by taking a judicious selection of our customers and resists or rouge in our diet from infancy upwards.
Our own Professor McCollum of Johns Hopkins tried to teach us these very things long before the London research workers made their observations, pointing out that the composition of the diet, not only of the child, but of the expectant mother and the nursing mother, determines the development of sound teeth.
Among the foods containing vitamin-A therefore—entirely to be called "tooth food"—are, crude and liver oil, butter, raw milk, egg yolk, raw cabbage, lettuce, celery, leaves, spinach, beet leaves and other greens, orange juice, carrots, potato skin, bananas, nuts, herring, salmon, cheese, green onions, heart kidney, sweetbread and brain.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
What You Don't Eat
Everything I eat seems to constipate me.—N. T. S.
Answer.—That is common misapprehension. No food is binding or constipating. It is rather what you do not eat that may be a factor of constipation. For instance, the bran of the wheat is nature's own laxative, is digestible, appetizing, carries practically all the vitamins most of the iron, much of the fat, and much of the good flavor of the wheat. Bran is not only digestible by man but, contrary to a hasty theory by some physicians, is nutritious for man. Therefore eat some bran in one way or another, cooked or raw, every day. Remember, no reasonably wholesome article of diet is binding.
Watermelon Seeds
Kindly inform me whether there is harm in swallowing watermelon seeds, should one do so.—E. L.
Answer.—No; but be careful not to get them in your ears.

EVIDENCE OF WASTE
Editor Appleton Post-Crescent: On the corner of Eighth and State streets stands a brick structure that in times gone by, housed a fire-fighting apparatus and crew.
The powers that rule the destinies of our city decided to centralize the fire department and therefore removed this outfit to the downtown house.
Whether this movement was an improvement on the fire-fighting organization of Appleton, opinions differ.
Some time ago, a petition was circulated and signed by a number of taxpayers of the Third and Fifth wards, asking that this house known as No. 7 Fire Department be again occupied and used as a fire station.
This petition was presented to the Common council, but that enlightened body ignored the petitioners' request.
The building is now empty, the windows broken, and the whole structure presents a picture of neglect and desolation.
I believe the council ought to either reinstate the fire department there as it originally was, rent or sell the building, or trade it in for some park property, since the acquisition of parks seems to be a sort of craze at the present time.
Allowing a valuable piece of property, and a building in fairly good condition to stand idle for so long a time, seems to me to be a very careless place of city management.

SCHOOL FAIR AT GREENVILLE
Editor, Post-Crescent:
Friday, October 19 is the date for the Great School Fair in Greenville. Great because the preparations indicate it will excel anything of the kind yet given.
The exhibits will consist of agricultural produce to be selected by the children from their farm homes, canned goods, needle work, manual training collections and the regular school work appropriate to the eight grades in the rural school in Greenville.
There will also be a very elaborate showing to be known as the School District Booth exhibit in which all the school districts in the town are expected to be represented in showing all their activities and resources in competition against each other for prizes. The school boards and parents are expected to cooperate with the teachers and pupils in making this elaborate display.
People in all parts of the town have pledged their assistance, and there seems to be the assurance that the public intends to spend this day with the school children. There is no reason why the autos coming can not be decorated to honor the rising generation to which we shall soon trust all future affairs, and make the occasion a gala one.

Q. How long does it take to call the roll of the House of Representatives? M. N.
A. The reading clerk of the House says that he can make a roll call in 25 minutes. There are 435 members of the House, and on each roll call these names have to be called three times, with clerks checking off on printed lists as the members answer to their names.
Q. Was the late Cardinal Gibbons born in this country? A. B.

Q. What kinds of grass should be sown on a heavily shaded lawn? H. L. W.
A. The Department of Agriculture says that Kentucky blue grass is considered the best for a heavily shaded lawn. The following proportions should be used: 1 part of red fescue to 2 parts blue grass. When this combination is used one pound to every 400 square feet should be allowed. The seed should be sown any time before the middle of September.
Q. What proportion of the officers in the Army are West Pointers? S. D. L.
A. The records merely show the per centage of officers who are West Point graduates. This is slightly under 20 per cent.
Q. Why was it said that all roads led to Rome? M. D.
A. The saying "all roads lead to Rome" is an old Italian proverb. The principal roads of the Empire all led to the capital city. The so-called golden milestone set up by Augustus in the Roman Forum near Saturn's Temple marked the starting place. It contained a list of the main places located on these roads with a record of their distances from various gates of the city.
Q. How shall I get a job where I can learn to be a detective? D. H. C.
A. William J. Burns, head of the Intelligence Division of the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., says that the best method for a young man to pursue if he is seriously interested in taking up the profession of detective work is to get a position as a regular policeman on his police force or with the police of a larger city if he lives in a small town. The training obtained by doing this kind of work is invaluable to one who wishes to lay the foundation for detective work.
Q. What mark distinguishes coins made in the Philadelphia Mint? C. E. M.
A. Coins made in the Philadelphia Mint are known by the absence of a mark. The mint mark of the San Francisco Mint is an "S" and of the Denver Mint a "D."
Q. What is amber and where is it obtained? O. A. K.
A. Amber is a mineral pigment resembling ochre, but differing from true ochre in containing some oxide of manganese. It occurs at many localities in Europe, notably in the island of Cyprus and is also mined in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Georgia and New York. It is soft, earthy, and of a dark-brown color. Raw amber yields a brown paint, while burnt amber has a redder tinge. Both are stable and can be mixed with water or oil.
Q. How old should a colts pup be to be weaned? E. D. N.
A. All purposes should be weaned at the age of about six weeks and a start to prepare them for leaving the mother should be made when they have reached the age of about three weeks. At this time give them a little warm milk, which may be exchanged for soup and stale bread when they are a month old.

MARRIED LIFE RECORD
Union, Ohio.—Death of her husband last December ended, for Catherine A. Wheeler, what federal census officials say is the longest record of married life on record.
Mrs. Wheeler, 74 years old, was born in 1834 and was married in 1835. She explains, "there were times when one of us disagreed with the other. But early in our married life we worked out our plan."
"When one was displeased with the other, the aggrieved one stopped for a second thought before speaking a word or showing any displeasure. And that plan worked."

CLOUDY SKIES FAIL TO HALT CAMPAIGN

Womans Club Members Begin Drive To Raise $10,000 For Year's Work

The money which Appleton should spend on recreation for girls, emphasizing the fact that the club is the only place to which girls can go, other than a moving picture theatre or a public dance hall.

PROPERTY COST $15,500
The facts about the clubhouse purchase have been given to the workers. The property cost $12,500 and the repairs and alterations about $3,000, making a total cost of $15,500. On this $9,000 has already been paid, including $1,000 in gifts from other organizations and money raised by the club's efforts, a $3,000 surplus, and building subscription from the members totaling $5,000. The debt of $5,500 on the property will be paid by the women.

It is because of the purchase of the property, however, that the club is making every effort to get the entire running expense budget. If this is met, all the efforts of the club which usually go into earning part of the running expenses will be transferred to clearing the building debt and thus eliminating the necessity for paying interest on the money.

The workers are divided into eight teams, each of which will report at the clubhouse at the supper on Wednesday night. The woman who makes the most visits will be given a pair of silk hose, donated by the Misses Geenen. The woman who collects the most money will be given a leather purse which Mrs. S. C. Rosebush purchased in Europe and which she has donated for the prize. To the teams getting the most money and making the most visits will be given boxes of candy. Teams from the recreation department will be organized to call upon the members of the clubs and classes for their donations.

She plays the role of Dolores Ruer, a young Spanish beauty, the daughter of a president of Sobranie who lost his life in one of those periodical revolutions to which that country is subject.

John Stuart Webster, the mining engineer, played by Mr. J. Warren Kerrigan, goes to Sobranie, to develop a gold mine. He falls in love with Dolores, gets mixed up in a revolution in both sympathy and money, finds himself in the midst of a battle, and as the result of being nearly killed, wins the girl of his heart.

BIG DEMAND FOR COMMUNITY ARTIST SERIES TICKETS

Louis Grauevre Will Open Four Number Program Here November 9

With the student sale of tickets for the Community Artists series opening Wednesday morning, the season tickets for the series were moving rapidly by Wednesday noon. Mail orders have been coming in in good numbers since the sale was opened but as the Louis Grauevre concert for Nov. 9 draws near, more and more people are making their reservations for the course.

Louis Grauevre, the most popular artist of last year's course, will be the first of the four number course here. He will be followed by the Chicago Symphony orchestra on Dec. 11, Meier and Pattison in January and Florio in February. This is the most outstanding group of entertainers that Appleton has ever had.

The two soloists are recognized as among the finest in the country. The Chicago Symphony orchestra will satisfy that desire for more symphony music which was created last year by the Minneapolis symphony orchestra. Meier and Pattison will prove the popular number of the course since their records are well known to all who have phonographs. So great was the popularity of these pianists who give programs on two pianos in one city that they visited, that the audience stood up and cheered at the end of a group of numbers.

The price of the series this year is $3, $4 and $5 depending upon the location of seats. It is interesting to note that the Green Bay course of four numbers, all of which are soloists, is being sold for $10 a seat. The course includes Mischa Elman and Arthur Shattuck, both of whom have been here. Frieda Hempel, who is being brought to Appleton as a special and independent number and Louise Holzer. Gaill Curci will be in Green Bay, but not as a number of the $10 series.

I SPIED TODAY

Jackie Coogan, hero of many a screen entertainment in spite of his lack of years, will be the attraction at the Elite theatre beginning Wednesday evening. He is featured in "Circus Days," taken from that boyhood gem, "Toby Tyler, or Ten Weeks with a Circus." There are mighty few grownups who never read the story of Toby Tyler. Post-Crescent readers can obtain free tickets to this picture by contributing interesting news items to the I Spied Today editor. Please be sure of your facts, write your story as interestingly as you can and sign your name.

A DOG-CART ACCIDENT

It was on Oneida-st Thursday afternoon. There were three of them and they harnessed Bruno (or he might have been Fido) up to their cart. They all meant to ride but they found that Bruno wouldn't play "horse" unless his little owner ran ahead of him and coaxed him along. Then he was like Mary's little lamb, everywhere his master went he followed. So when his owner cut the corner by ducking under the corner of an open porch along dashed Bruno right behind him. The cart made it easily but the boys sitting in the cart didn't low-bridge quick enough. They were hurt, so were their feelings. F. D.

HE SAVED HER LIFE

Monday evening I was coming from the lower Fourth ward crossing the Johnson bridge. At the north side of this bridge is a railroad crossing and at this time a train of freight cars was coming from the north. Head-lights showed that three cars were coming down the hill and as I saw they would about connect with the train at the crossing I stopped my car and commenced blinking my headlights frantically. Two of the cars stopped before getting to the crossing. The other, the third one, kept right on. The engineer brought his train to a full stop a few feet from the crossing as the car whizzed by.

It was a young woman driving a Ford coupe. The act of the engineer saved her life, but she no doubt is not aware of that. F. V. H.

Malloch Mixes Laughs With Serious Plea For Happier Life At Home

Poet-Humorist Entertains 150 Men And Women At First Chamber Of Commerce Forum This Season

Bachelors got a scolding, girls got a lot of warnings and some encouragement, wives received heaps of praise in poetry and some rebukes in verse much, and the men got both pity and criticism, and some cause for ego in the address given by Douglas Malloch of Chicago, poet and humorist, on "Husbands and Wives" at the chamber of commerce forum dinner at Hotel Appleton Tuesday evening.

This was Mr. Malloch's second appearance at a chamber of commerce dinner here and he was received with more appreciative than before as he voiced his bright philosophy of life in his unending flow of wit and his simple, yet rich poetry about home and family. He is to appear in Appleton for the third time next spring when he comes here for the Tenth district Rotary conference.

Approximately 150 persons, including a delegation from New London, heard the addresses of the forum program, the first of the season. Lee C. Busey was toastmaster and Dr. Paul L. Baker conducted community singing. Mrs. Stephen C. Rosebush gave a short talk outlining reasons why Appleton Women's club needs support in its financial campaign. A brief address also was made by E. C. Porter of Milwaukee, who described the coming Wisconsin Products exposition in Milwaukee. He suggested that the manufacturers of Appleton get together in arranging their displays at the state show in December.

PLEADS FOR HAPPY HOMES
Though Mr. Malloch invoked paroxysms of laughter with his clever sallies about love and family life he sent his hearers from the banquet hall with the lines of his poems ringing in their ears and bearing in them the plea to husband and wives to love each other more, for devoting of more time to the home and children, and for the cultivation of lasting happiness from life. Long applause brought the speaker to his feet a second time, after which he recited his poem urging neighbors to know and help one another for fear they might not become acquainted until they were ready to part.

The poor bachelor got no sympathy from the speaker, who called him a coward and declared that even if marriage is a failure a bachelor hardly can be called a success until he tries it himself.
"It is the duty of every man to make some woman unhappy," said the humorist. "And no man is wise until a woman makes a fool of him. Why I knew of a man who left $50,000 to the girl who jilted him 25 years ago. And then they say there is no such thing as gratitude."
It is better to be met at the door with a rolling pin than nothing, said Mr. Malloch to the bachelors. A good many don't understand what matrimony means. A man puts up with marriage in order to get a certain woman, but a woman puts up with a man just to get married. He thinks the woman, and she thinks of the institution, of the kind of house she will want to live in. The sober point back of his remarks was expressed in his poem that a fellow needs an anchor, something to tie to, a woman, a pal, a guide.

JOKE ABOUT LOVE
The poet then had his fun with the subject of love, ending up with the poem about the boy who falls in love and how he washes up, dresses and changes.
Many an orange blossom turned out to be a lemon," he said, "and many a girl has caught a husband when she wishes she caught the measles instead. It is hard to believe in men after all we hear, but believe in one of us anyway, girls. It is better to believe than to be left. Love is a simple thing after all. First it's idealize, then, idealize, then idolize. Then they're married and it's criticism. As sure as a boy washes his neck behind the ears, that's love and a sure sign he's got a girl."
Husbands and wives had their turn next. A poem was given telling of time as the test of love, and that if husbands and wife still are fond of each other after ten years, that is the time to extend congratulations rather than after the marriage ceremony.
"To be happy, a woman should love her husband as he loves himself," said the poet. "Make his dreams, hopes and ambitions yours. A wife should be a comfort to a husband, not a blank."
What a man needs is "someone to care," declared the poem which he recited at this point. Husbands were admonished to let the evening paper go for a while after they come home in the evening and to hear the greatest news of the day, the news of wife, home and children. This philosophy was illustrated touchingly by his poem, "We Have No Time for Children."

Women were told not to be kitchen slaves, yet were warned that the dining room is a real opportunity for a man's happiness.
"On women rests the real responsibility for the home," said the speaker after reciting his poem, "His Heritage," the sketch of a boy growing up. "Man never makes the home—sometimes not even two or three times a week. The husband, that remains around so much ought to be called Rover instead of the dog that remains lazily before the fireplace."

FUN WITH HOMES
A real laugh concerning man in the home came from Mr. Malloch's verses about man's longing for a place to keep his shirts. He told women not to put the house above the husband, and not to scold if he got a few cigars ashes on the carpet. "Don't fall and worship the scrub brush and defy the vacuum cleaner," he said. "If you must choose between the scrub brush and your scrubby husband, by all means choose the husband. Every man ought to own his home—in fact he ought to have two homes, one to stay in while his wife is cleaning up the other."
The "day of rest" that never comes to a married man and the age old problem of who is boss in the household came in for consideration, with some quaint sentiment about husband and wife pulling together.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Salts At First Sign Of Bladder Irritation Or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues bog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a course of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

BUILDING PERMITS

pressed in the homely lines of the mule team poem, Gee and Haul."

"The best way is to let the wife have her way even in all the little things, so you husbands then can have your way in the big things," he mused. Before the housewife a man tells his wife what they are going to do, but afterward he begins asking what to do. For the first three weeks she jumps on his knee when he comes into the sitting room and perches herself in the rocker. But after that she jumps on his neck. Married people should use diplomacy. You know, the real meaning of diplomacy is the art of letting someone else have your way."

From this vein of thought he again drew a poetical ideal when he recited his lines about "Baby is Boss."

There are two things women should keep, declared Mr. Malloch. One is her temper and the other her looks. If she keeps the former she is sure to keep the latter. Of course a man uses sharp words to a woman once in a while, but he has to do that because he must get them in edgewise. Husbands and wives become careless about caring for one another, or at least about telling one another about it. After a man has been married awhile he gives his wife a peck on the cheek instead of a kiss on the mouth, as he rushes away to the office or club. A man should tell his wife he loves her still, said the humorist, and there is advantage to him no matter which way she takes it. The address closed with a splendid poem written from the faithful wife of the woodsmen and entitled, "My Man and Me."

THE ISLE OF RETRIBUTION

BY EDISON MARSHALL

ILLUSTRATED BY R. W. SATERFIELD © LITTLE, BROWN & COMPANY, 1923

He had been quietly following that portion of the trap line that followed the timber belt between the Twelve Mile Cabin and Forks cabin, and the blazed trail had led him into the depths of a heavy thicket of young spruce. He had never felt more secure. The only hint of danger that the Red Gods afforded him did not half penetrate his consciousness and did not in the least call him from his pleasant fancies. It was only a glimpse of green where the snow had been shaken from a compact little group of sapling spruce just beside one of his traps. Like the wind and caught the little trees just right, perhaps some unfortunate little tree-bearer, a martin perhaps, or a fisher, had sprung back and forth among the little trees in an effort to free himself from the trap. He walked up quickly, looked at the tree to which the trap chain was attached, bent and started to draw the trap from the small dense thicket where the creature had dragged it. He was only casually interested in what manner of poor, frozen creature would be revealed between the steel jaws. The beauty of the day had wholly taken his mind from his work.

One moment, and the forest was asleep about him: the little trees looked sadly burdened with their loads of snow. The next, and the man was hurled to the ground by a savage, snarling thing that leaped from the covert like the snow demon it was; and white, gleaming fangs were flashing toward his throat.

XXII
Except for the impediment of the trap on the creature's foot there would have been but one blow to that battle in the snow. White fangs would have gone home where they were aimed, and all of Ned Corbett's problems would have been simply and promptly solved.

This was not some little fur-bearer, helplessly in the trap. It was no less a creature than that great terror of the snow, a full-grown Arctic wolf, almost as white as the drifts he hunted through. Only the spruce trees knew how this deadly, muzzling hunter came to snare his foot in the jaws of a martin trap. Nor could any sensible explanation be made why the great wolf did not break the chain with one lunge of his powerful body, instead of sinking into the covers and waiting developments. The ways of the wild creatures quite often fall of any kind of an explanation; and it is a kind woodsman who will write any particular creature will do under any particular condition. When he saw Ned's body within leaping range he knew the desperate impulse to fight. The chain of the trap broke like a spring as he leaped. The steel leash that is often used to restrain a savage dog would have broken no less quickly. There was no visible result: that little resistance there was seemingly did not in the least retard the blow. It did, however, affect his accuracy. That fact alone saved Ned from instant death.

But as the wolf lunged toward him to complete his work—after the manner of some of the beasts of prey when they fail to kill at the first leap—an inner man of might seemed to awaken in Ned's prone body. A great force came to life within him; he lunged upward and met the wolf in the teeth.

A great surge of strength, seemingly without physical limitation, poured through him. In one great bound he overcame the deadly handicap of his own prone position, springing up with terrible, reaching, snatching hands and clashing arms. Some way, he did not know how, he hurled that hundred pounds of living steel from his body before the white fangs could go home.

But there was not an instant's pause. Desperate with fury, the wolf sprang in again—a long, white streak almost too fast for the eyes to follow. But he did not find Ned at a disadvantage now. The man had wrenched to one side to hurl the creature away, but he had already caught his balance and had braced to meet the second onslaught.

Ned did not wait to catch the full force of that blow. His powerful thighs, made from hard in these last bitter weeks, drove him out and up in an offensive assault. His long body seemed to meet that of the wolf in the air. Then they rolled together into the drifts.

The wolf wrangled free, sending home one vicious bite into the flesh just under the arm, and for a breath both contestants seemed to be playing some weird, pinwheel game in the snow. The silence of the everlasting wild was torn to shreds by the noise of battle—the frantic snarling of the wolf, the wild snouts of this mad man who had just found his strength. Then for a moment both contestants seemed to be motionless in the snow. The wolf lay like a great bound before the firs—fore less stretched in front, body at full length. Ned lay at one side, the animal's head between his knees, one arm around his neck, the other thrusting back the great head. The whole issue of life or death, victory or defeat, was suddenly immensely simplified. It depended solely on whether or not Ned had the physical might to push back the shaggy head and shatter the vertebrae.

Time stood still. A thousand half-rained fancies flew through Ned's mind. His life blood seemed to be surging from his pores, and his heart was tearing itself to shreds in his breast. But the wolf was quivering now. Its eyes were full of strange, unwild fire. And then Ned gave a last, terrific wrench.

A bone broke with a distinct crack in the utter silence. And as he felt forward, spent, the great white form slacked down and went limp in his arms.

XXIII
In a little while Ned stripped the pelt from the warm body of the wolf and continued down his line of traps. He was able to think more coherently now and consider methods and details. And by the same token of clear thought, he was brought face to face with the fact of the almost insuperable obstacles in his path.

Plans for freedom first of all seemingly had to include Doomsdorf's death. That was the first essential, and the last. Could they succeed in striking the life from their master, they could wait in the cabin until the trader intrepid should touch their island in the spring.

The difficulty lay in finding an opening of attack. Doomsdorf's rifle was never loaded except when it was in his arms, and he wore his pistol in his belt, day and night. For all his hopelessness, Ned had noticed, half inadvertently, that he always took precautions against a night attack. The squaw slept on the outside of their cot and would be as difficult to pass without arousing as a sleeping dog. The cabin itself was booby-trapped to be entered without warning, both occupants, and the three prisoners of course slept in the newer cabin.

Ned was working that part of the line from his Twelve-Mile cabin over the ridge toward the Forks cabin—his old rendezvous with Bess. He was somewhat late in crossing the range today. The blazed trail took him around the shoulder of the ridge, clear to the edge of a little, deeply-seamed glacier such as crowns so many of the larger hills in the far North.

Few were the wild creatures that traversed this icy desolation, so his trap line had been laid out around the glacier, following the blazed trail in the scrub timber. But today the long way round was particularly grievous to his spirit. More than a mile could be saved by leaving the timber and climbing across the ice, and only a few sets, none of which had ever proved especially productive, would be missed.

Without an instant's hesitation he turned from the trail straight over the snowy summit toward the cabin. The cut-off would save him the annoyance of making camp after dark. And since he had climbed it once before, he scarcely felt the need of extra caution.

The crossing, however, was not quite the same as on the previous occasion. Before the ice had been covered, completely across, with a heavy snowfall, no harder to walk on than the open barrens. He soon found now that the snow prevailed only to the summit of the glacier, and the descent beyond the summit had been swept clean by the winds.

Below him stretched a half-mile of glare ice, ivory white like the fangs of some fabulous beast of prey. Here and there it was gashed with crevices—those deep glacier chasms into which a stone falls in silence. For a moment Ned regarded it with considerable displeasure.

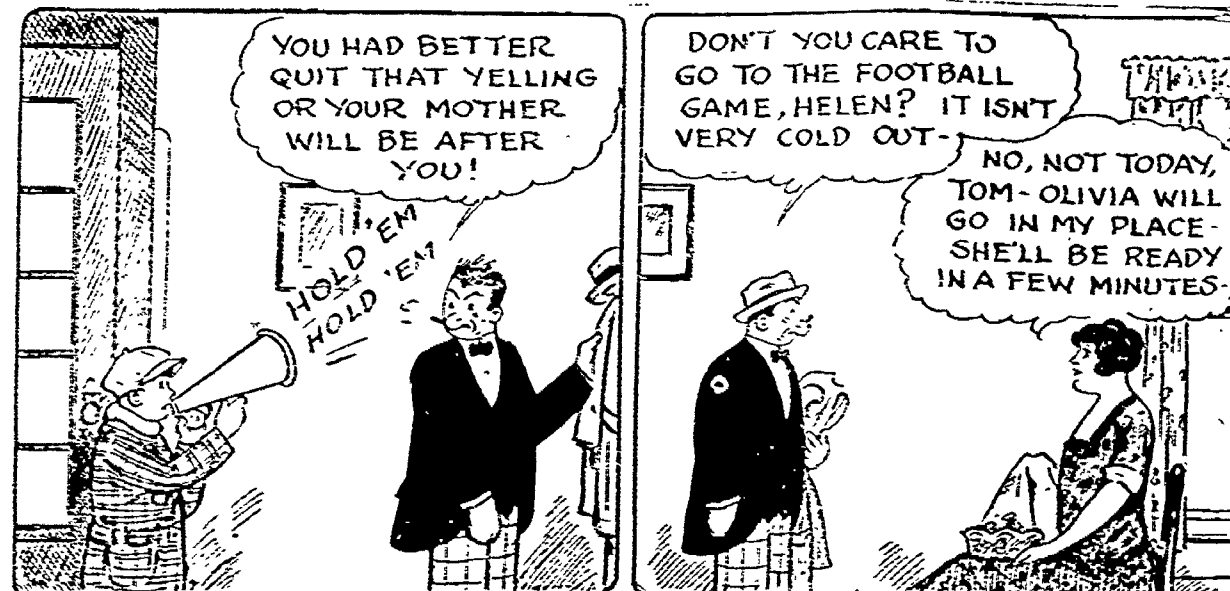

He decided to take a chance. He removed his snowshoes and ventured carefully out upon the ice.

Lawrence Gets Life's Record Of Students To Determine Their Fitness

Complete History Of Prospective Student's Pro-College Life Studied By Freshman Council

The problem of "Who should go to college?" is being met very carefully at Lawrence, not after the students have proved they cannot carry the work, but before either time or money has been wasted, that is before the new students have been allowed to register. More than 15 students were refused admission to the college this year because they were lacking in preparation, purpose, mental ability or moral character.

Through the efforts of a freshman council of faculty members headed by Dr. R. C. Muller, as director of admissions and dean of freshmen, those students who are admitted to the college will be given every opportunity to succeed. The method used in selecting the students for admission is very similar to that which an employer uses when he wishes to obtain the best possible candidate for a position in his business.

When a student wishes to apply for admission at the college, he must give requested information on a form called "The Prospective Student's Record." This gives, besides the usual information about his parents or guardians, information about his outside interests while in high school. These may include school publications, musical and other organizations, athletics, debate, dramatics, oratory, class officers, prizes and honors. It also asks for information about any remunerative work which the candidate may have held. It asks concerning the student's membership in the Y. M. C. A. or similar organizations.

MUST WRITE LETTER

After the student has filled in the information required, he is asked to write a letter telling just why he wishes to go to college and what he hopes to do in the way of an educational program. This will include an outline of what the student has thought out as his college course and subsequent profession or vocation. The director of admissions asks the students in this same admission form for the names and addresses of three responsible citizens, two of whom are not connected with the school from which he is a graduate. To these, the directors send a second form in which he asks for information concerning the applicant for college entrance. This information deals with whether the student is markedly, distinctly or doubtfully above or below the average in native ability, ambition, industry and fair-mindedness, originality, integrity, initiative, clean-mindedness, fair play, school spirit, interest in fellow students, leadership and health. A statement regarding the habits and moral character is requested as well as information about any outstanding qualifications or achievements of the applicant, especially if he has been able to overcome unusual obstacles. The person to whom the applicant has referred the dean is then asked whether he considers that the candidate has ability, ambition, character and preparation such as to justify his entering upon a college course.

GET SCHOOL RECORD

To the principal of the high school is sent a form of recommendation for admission together with the same form that is sent to the referees who are asked to give their opinion on the applicant's character. On this recommendation blank are written all units of credit which the student has received together with the standing he was given in each.

The purpose of all this information is to determine before the student has registered at the college and paid his money for instruction whether he is "cut out" for college work or whether his time and money might be spent to greater advantage in developing his talents along another line. Another advantage is that it gives a better opportunity to know how to place the freshmen in classes so that their eight years of study beyond the grammar school will be a well rounded out unit.

OUTLINE STUDENTS WORK

In this connection another form is used to enable the council to determine where the prospective students' training has been least developed. On these forms are written the units of credit that each student had in his high school and opposite these units are the hours which are required for college graduation and how much has been taken. From this chart the dean of freshmen may readily outline a course for the student along the general lines which he needs, leaving some choice in each field to the student himself.

On the opposite side of this blank form is placed the record of college registrations giving a complete record of the four year course when the student has completed his work. The purpose of articulating the two courses is to develop the idea of the one unit of eight years rather than two units of four years in high school and four years in college.

The freshman council which includes besides Dr. Muller, Dr. Louis Baker, Dr. J. H. Griffith, Dr. F. M. Engler, Dr. Arthur Weston, Dr. W. E. McPherson, Dr. J. C. Lymer and Dr. W. F. Raney will work with the students in order that they may be given a favorable introduction into college life. Many students find when they reach college that the freedom which they are allowed in their studies is detrimental to their progress. The help of the council will enable the student make his adjustment to new conditions more readily.

CARRY MORE WORK

Through the information gained from the recommendations and the high school records, the council will be able to determine what group of students in the college is able to carry additional work and develop its possibilities to a higher point. It has long been the experience of college administrators that since the mentality of some students is so far superior to that of others, it often happens that these best students have a great deal of time to waste when their courses are not difficult enough. These students will be encouraged to take up additional phases of college work, thus enabling them to get as much out of their courses as they are mentally and physically able to do.

It also happens that some very good students in high school do not maintain that standard when they reach college. By means of the careful supervision of the dean and the council, the reasons for these difficulties will be determined before they have been instrumental in the complete failure of the students.

LOST HUNTER TALE GIVES NEW THRILL TO COMING TALK

Formation Of Searching Party Proof That Steffansson Will Have Able Address Here

An Associated Press dispatch carried by the newspapers Monday contains ample proof that there will be nothing "dry" or commonplace about the address which Vilhjalmur Stefansson will make at Lawrence Memorial chapel Nov. 3 under auspices of the chamber of commerce.

This dispatch, describing organization of an expedition by the Canadian government to search the frozen north for seven or eight lost American hunters, mentions the fact that these men were members of Stefansson's exploring party. Stefansson was fortunate enough to escape, but the others are believed to be marooned somewhere, and perhaps are dead.

William A. Campbell, formerly state assemblyman from Milwaukee, heads the Canadian rescue expedition. The marooned men, far gatherers, went to the north with Vilhjalmur Stefansson during the winter of 1912-13 but did not return with later rescue parties, or when Stefansson departed it was Campbell who found Stefansson and his men in 1920 and brought them from the Arctic circle.

"This gives Appleton people an inkling of what is in store for them when this foremost explorer of America comes here to speak," declared Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce. "Stefansson not only has had harrowing experiences known to adventurers, but he is a graduate of two colleges and therefore is equipped to tell about them. He has been praised warmly for his pluck, his work, and I want to urge everybody in Appleton to set aside Nov. 3 so they may hear his great address."

CHANCE FOR BOYS TO FIND FRIENDS IN FOREIGN LANDS

J. E. Dennison, boys work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is about to start a "world outlook corner" for the benefit of his boys. This will make it possible for them to correspond with those of foreign countries and exchange gifts or cards should they feel so inclined. Mr. Dennison already has the addresses of nearly two dozen boys in European countries who are willing to do this work and is now in communication with Y. M. C. A. secretaries in China and Japan and other countries of the orient relative to securing additional names.

"We decided on DUNLOP—the way you pick your tires"

WHEN we were invited to become a Dunlop dealer, we asked the same questions we believed our customers would ask of us.

Is it a reliable tire, built by an established concern? Dunlop is the internationally-greatest tire-industry. Dunlop Tires are in their 35th year of satisfactory performance.

Is there any reason why Dunlop Tires should give better than average mileage? Yes—layers of East India rubber, between the cords, keep them COOL—nearly frictionless. This, plus the diagonal arrangement of the cord layers, is the secret of Dunlop Mileage.

Will they skid? Just look at the Dunlop tread. We don't know of a better non-skid tread on the market.

Do Dunlops cost more? No—they cost no more than other reputable tires.

We believe in Dunlops, and recommend them to you.

Lawrence Students Stage Pep Meeting To Cheer Gridmen

College Band Leads Hundreds To Football Field To Bring Back Spirit Lacking In La- Crosse Contest

"It's an ill wind that blows no good," Lawrence suffered a disgraceful defeat at LaCrosse last Saturday, but the loss of that contest appears to have brought both the grid and the student body in general to life and revived the school spirit which has been conspicuous by its absence since the opening of the football season here.

At chapel Tuesday morning several speakers, among them Harry Sylvester and Dr. D. J. O'Connor, addressed the assembled faculty and students, explaining to them the need of support for the team to carry the Blue and White to victory. Tuesday afternoon several hundred students accompanied by the college band appeared on the Lawrence field to witness a scrimmage between Bill Smith's Frosh and "Cub" Buck's sophomores, and to cheer the man to greater effort. Apparently the cheering and music had some effect, for both the Frosh and regulars worked hard and fast, and showed up better than usual. There is still a tendency on the part of many of the players to limp off the field and out of the game on the slightest excuse. Sometimes a trivial bump on the shoulder or a game of an apparently husky grinder to the bench, while others who have been limping or carrying an arm in a sling for days remain in the game and carry on despite the evident pain it causes them.

SHOW PROPER STAMINA

Fortunately for football prospects at the college, there are a few men on the squad who are ready to suck and allow nothing short of broken bones to interfere with the game. If hard work can teach the rest of the string to follow their example, the end of the week should see Coach Buck's charges ready to fight. Beloit to a finish Saturday afternoon, for Cub and Athletic Director Denney are driving their men as they have never been driven before. Captain "Liz" Blackbourn was in the thick of the work preliminary to the scrimmage Tuesday afternoon with his left arm tied to his side in order to give it a chance to recover from a strain suffered at the LaCrosse game. Grignon was out in spite of the strained ligaments in his leg, and fought every moment until he was forced off the field by a new injury. More of that spirit displayed in the games will help immensely to carry the Blue and White to victory. Beloit has always been a hard outfit for the Lawrence squad to buck, and this year's team is said to be tougher than ever. Hard work and plenty of it is therefore in store for the Lawrence first string for the rest of the week.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Marquette kept its record clean in the State scholastic football race by taking the Marquette Frosh into camp 13 to 0. The Northerners had a tough battle on their hands but they finally pushed across a win of touchdowns. Next Saturday, Marquette plays East Green Bay.

And Sheboygan is another scholastic pilsener aggregation with an unblemished record. Coach Iverson's youngsters triumphed over the heavy Kenosha team 12 to 5. It was an exciting struggle but the Chalmers held the upper hand from first to last whistle.

One of the surprises in high school football over the weekend was East Green Bay's 34 to 5 success over Oshkosh. The Sawdust City schoolers were expected to bring home the bacon but the Green Bay team cut loose with a flashy attack that paved the way to victory.

Appleton challenged its second win in the Valley conference by defeating a 10 to 0 victory over Fond Du Lac. Coach Wilson had his squad "tutting on all eleven" and they appear to have a varied attack. Saturday the College City schoolers are slated for action against West Green Bay.

Although defeated by Appleton, Fond du Lac displayed a sparkling brand of football. Coach Roy has the "manager" of a better than average football squad. Friday, they played a star game against Appleton, losing up as one of the best scholastic football smashes around these parts.

Cub Buck's Lawrence colleagues received a rude surprise at the hands of LaCrosse Normal and the Appleton varsity came home on the short end of the score. Lawrence showed unexpected strength on the defensive and the Teachers' also uncovered a smooth working attack.

Lund is playing superb football for Marinette High. The lanky half back, who leads the team, has starred in every game played by the Northerners this season. For a player of his size, he is fast on his feet and can pick a hole nicely. He has proven to be a "bear" on the defense.

Neenah and Manitowish battled to a 0 to 0 score in last Saturday's football game at Neenah. The teams were fairly evenly matched. Neenah showed

YANKS PRESENT MILLER HUGGINS WITH SPARKLER

McGraw Joins His Voice To Medley Of Congratulations For Victors

New York—The shouting and cheering that went on in the Yankee clubhouse at the Polo ground after they had won the world's championship seemed to rival the shouting of the multitude outside. The new holders of baseball's highest honors galloped off the field and into their dressing rooms in high glee.

Big Babe Ruth was the first to grab Bob Meusel, who had driven out a smashing single with three men on bases, sending enough runners in to win the game. Ruth threw his arms around the hero of the day and hugged him, shouting in his ear all the time.

Huggins was the next member of the champions to receive the attention of the players. They seized the little manager's hand and wrung it until Huggins winced. It was a joyous occasion, one for which the Yankees had been striving for three seasons, and they celebrated with a part up emotion that had been growing year by year in their hearts.

Finally Joe Buck and Babe Ruth jumped on the rubbing table and, above the babble of voices, raised their own, calling the players to nothing around. Then Ruth, embarrassed and bashful, took a diamond ring from a jeweler's case and presented it to Huggins.

It was several seconds before Huggins finally raised his head. There was a sob in his voice and the first of a tear in his eye as he thanked his players.

The clubhouse door opened and a stout looking man with gray hair made his way through the cheering throng. Straight he went to Miller Huggins and, grasping the manager of the champions by the hand, said:

"That's a great ball team you have and I want to add my congratulations to all of those you have already received. You beat us fair and square when we were doing the best we could all the time."

It was John McGraw, who had just seen his fondest ambition, to win three successive world's championships, blasted.

PACKERS TO BATTLE BADGERS ON SUNDAY

Milwaukee "Pro" Team, Un- defeated This Season, Promises Hard Fight

Milwaukee—The Milwaukee Badgers will travel to Green Bay this week-end where they will meet the Packers, Wisconsin state champs. Sunday afternoon at Bellevue park in a Pro league game. This contest is considered one of the most important on the Badger schedule and Captain Jimmy Conzelmann, the former Rock Island star, is working his squad daily to have them in the pink of condition for the Packers.

Aside from Smith, who suffered an injured shoulder in last Sunday's game against Racine, the Badgers are in good physical shape for the game, which is one in a series for professional football honors in Wisconsin.

NOT YET BEATEN

The Badgers haven't as yet tasted defeat this season. They have participated in three games, knocking out the Chicago Indians and battling to tie scores with Pete Starck's Columbus eleven and the Racine Legion. When Conzelmann took charge of the club this fall, he immediately started a house cleaning. Aside from Conzelmann, only Dimey Doane, full back, and Gyp Moorer, halfback are again in moleskins.

$6,278 Is Share Of Each Yank In Series Profit

New York—The Yanks in the world's series this year will split a million larger by over $100,000 than ever before. The total of the players' pool, computed for the first four games of the Yankee-Giant series, is $302,252.37.

Seventy-five per cent of this sum is to be divided between the contestants, while the balance goes to McGraw and his staff. The second place club in each league—Detroit in the American and Cincinnati in the National—will each divide up about $27,000 and the third league clubs—Cleveland and Pittsburgh—about $18,000 each.

The Yanks get 50 per cent of the sum, which is $151,126.19, and, according to best reports, were going to divide it into twenty-two shares, although the exact disposition of their pool will not be known until the players hold a meeting and vote. If they adhere to the twenty-two shares, each Yank's full share will be $6,278.91.

The Giants also had intended to make twenty-two shares of their 49 per cent sum of $145,126.18. This would give each Yank $1,151.50. The second place club in each league—Detroit in the American and Cincinnati in the National—will each divide up about $27,000 and the third league clubs—Cleveland and Pittsburgh—about $18,000 each.

TEN INNING GAME GIVES WHITE SOX TITLE IN CHICAGO

Americans Cop Fourth Victory Over Nationals, 4 To 3 And Take Pennant

Chicago—The White Sox again are Chicago city champions, beating the National league Cubs, 4 to 3, in ten innings on Tuesday. The Americans won the series, four games to two.

Two fumbles and a wild throw by George Grantham, gave the Sox the championship. The first fumble came in the ninth inning in which the Sox scored twice and knotted the count, while the second fumble and wild throw came in the tenth and allowed the Sox winning run to be scored.

It was the eighth city championship the Sox have won from the Cubs who earned the title three times. The National league won their last title last year, the first time in thirteen years. Tony Kaufman, buried the route in the final game for the Cubs. Urban Faber, Ted Lyons and Gorman V. Leverette picked for the Sox.

The members of the victorious White Sox team of the American league lost no time in packing up and leaving for their homes.

Willie Kamm, the $100,000 beauty purchased from the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league, accompanied by Outfielder Harry Hooper, First baseman Earl Sheely, Pitcher Hollis Thurston and Peaches Graham, left Tuesday night for California.

Washington, D. C.—George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, discussing reports that he might purchase the Cleveland American Baseball club, said he had entered into no negotiations but had considered the purchase.

NEHF TAKES ENTIRE BLAME FOR LOSS OF WORLD TITLE

New York—Although urged by his teammates to forget it, Art Neuf, Giant southpaw, has assumed the full responsibility for the loss of the world's championship by the Giants.

"I can't explain it," Neuf said on Tuesday. "My arm suddenly failed me when I was sure I was perfectly safe. It wouldn't respond and I couldn't get a thing out of it."

Neuf was depressed beyond expression, although the Giant players told him that he was the hero for trying so hard to win. He was disappointed also because in the stands were his father, from Indiana, his wife and his two children, little Art and Elizabeth.

"I couldn't stand to see little Art cry," the dejected father said.

WISCONSIN OPENS SCHEDULE AGAINST INDIANA SATURDAY

Big Ten Squads Prepare For First Big Battles Of Conference

By Associated Press

Chicago—Interest among followers of Big Ten football this week centers on practice activities at the camps of Michigan, opponents Saturday for Ohio State and Illinois, which will meet Iowa, the games being the first big battles of the western conference campaign.

The Michigan-Buckeye game may develop into an aerial fight as forward passing and plays built around the pass are being featured in the workouts of both teams. Coach Yost's Wolverines continued to hold secret sessions devoted to intensive work and the Buckeyes are showing strength against Michigan plays dished up by the reserves.

The offensive equipment of the Iowa Hawkeyes is being enlarged in practice this week with stiff scrimmages planned for the next few days. Coach Zuppke, Illinois' mentor, is sorting over material to replace several vacancies in his squad caused by injuries and scholarship deficiencies.

Scrimmage will be the bulk of the practice program for the week.

Signal drills have so far been the principal preparation Wisconsin has made this week for its first conference clash on Saturday with Indiana, conqueror of Northwestern last week. The Badgers have displayed a weak line against non-conference teams but hope to gain strength before the week end. The Hoosiers are taking extended workouts under arc lights this week.

Neighborhood differences will be settled by Northwestern and Chicago, the former anxious to recoup its losses, and the latter hoping to advance its conference standing. The Purple is minus the services of Sam Taylor, injured in practice Tuesday, and it was considered doubtful if he would participate in Saturday's clash. Chicago, after a lay off last week, is devoting time to breaking up aerial attacks and work in the backfield.

Minnesota and Purdue, who take the field against the non-conference North Dakota and Wabash teams respectively, are trying new combinations and devoting their time to light workouts.

Jamaica, N. Y.—Zev is willing to meet My Own in a special $50,000 race at Laurel, Md., Oct. 25, if he wins the intercontinental race with Papyrus, English Derby winner, while Papyrus win or lose, will return to England, it was announced.

Columbus school's soccer team Monday afternoon defeated the South Siders, 2 to 1 in a hard fought game witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators. Captain Schwendler was chiefly responsible for the victory, but Casper and Rohde also made considerable gains.

Lincoln completely swamped the Fifth ward school, shutting its team out, 4 to 0. It would be difficult to pick a particular star in this game, as all of the Lincoln boys did their stuff beyond reproach.

First ward humbled the Third warders, 5 to 2. Some clever footwork by Murphy, Brautigan and Schroeder near the end of the contest saved their school from a shut out.

SCHOOLS COMBINE IN PROGRAM FOR GREENVILLE FAIR

Town Officers Cooperate With Teachers To Make Fair a Success

Pupils of the various schools in the town of Greenville will take part in a combined school program to be given Friday evening in connection with the Greenville School fair in Helen's hall. Songs, recitations, drills, dialogues and other exercises are included. One of the features of the program is a Tom Thumb wedding. Contests in penmanship, spelling and rope splicing also promise to give a great deal of entertainment.

The school fair is being promoted by the town and teachers and town supervisors have gone to considerable trouble in preparing for the event. It is said to be the only school fair in the United States that is promoted by a town. School work, manual training exhibits, farm products, canned goods, handwork, etc. will be displayed in district booths.

Following is the program:

MOTION TO OUST SUIT IS DENIED

A motion for non-suit in the case of George Demerath and his guardian Ann M. L. Demerath against Frank M. Charlesworth, Sr., for $10,000 damages as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident in July 1919 was denied by Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Wednesday morning. The defendant's attorneys, Ryan and Carey, entered a motion for dismissal on the ground that no action had been begun until after two years following the accident. The plaintiff alleges that his leg was broken and that in consequence one leg has become shorter than the other. A claim for damages could not be presented at an earlier date because the extent of the injury was not known at the time, it is said. Attorneys Morgan and Johns are representing the plaintiff. A jury of twelve men is hearing the case which was begun Tuesday afternoon.
